

Supply Chain Optimization – Getting the Most for The Least Cost

This session will start by asking one question: Are you maximizing your vendor efficiencies to minimize your costs?

Bruce Rubin will examine the Supply Chain from the starting point of a company's vendors. He will then work through the entire Supply Chain to show where and how costs can be reduced with minimal to no effect on customer service and inventory levels.

Bruce will bring practical examples of products and vendors he has worked with over the years to reduce costs without an effect on product quality. In one major case, he will show how a change in product purchasing saved a company 8% on $2 million in purchases. That is only the start of the discussion that will take place during the session.
